"A Purple Quill, Writing Words of Gold"

Ball High School

Galveston, Texas

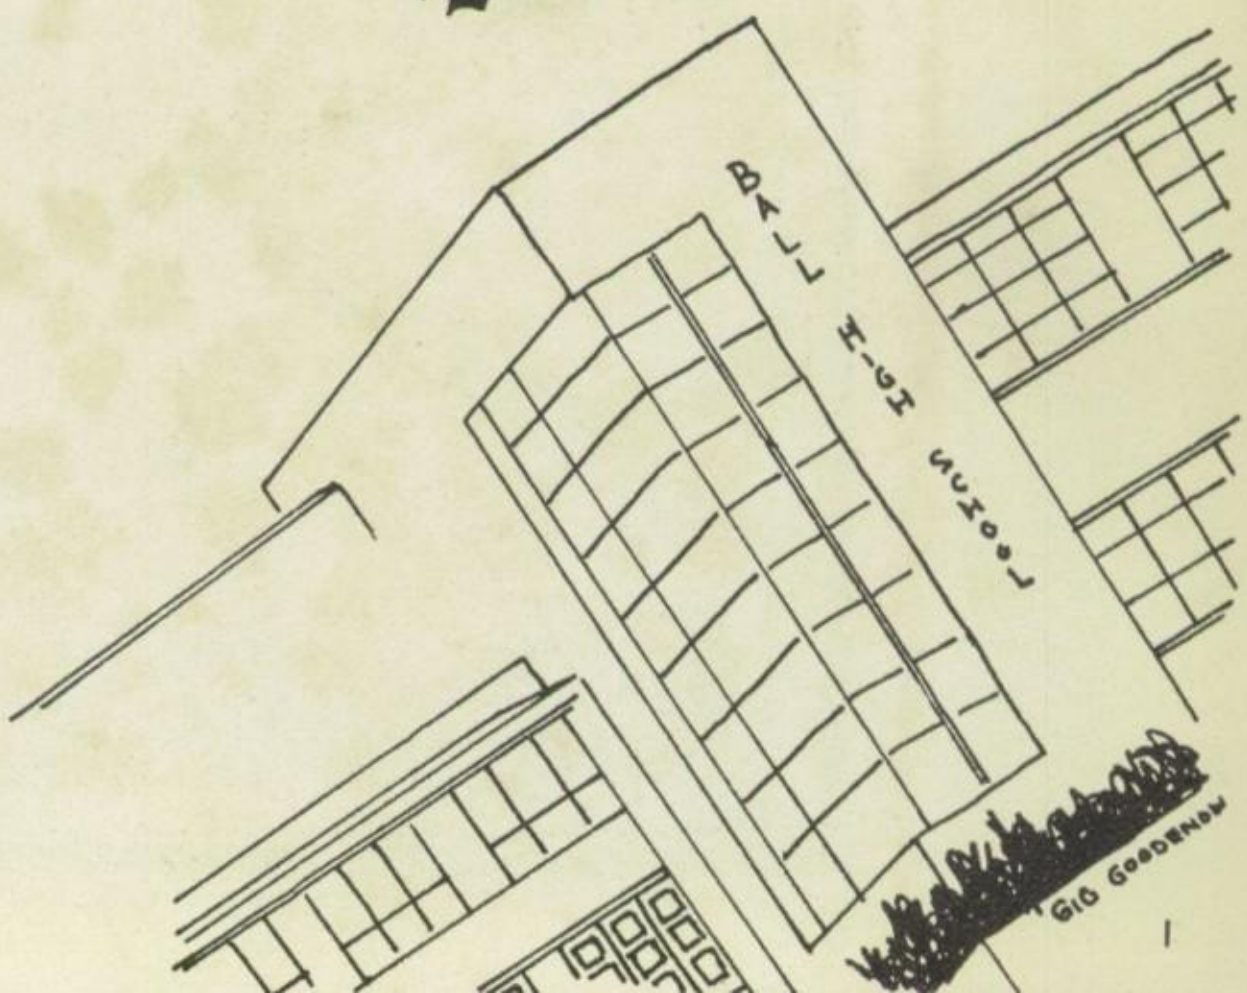
Volume 35



"Forming and breaking in the sky,
I fancy all shapes are there;
Temple, mountain, monument, spire:
(Ships rigged out with sails of fire,
And blown by the evening air.)"

Dedication

To the Quills of the past which have done such a fine job in keeping the records of our school's history, we dedicate this yearbook. The Purple Quill was first published in 1923 when it appeared as a literary magazine, and in 1948 became a pictorial yearbook. Thus, in 1958, we are now celebrating our tenth anniversary as an annual. In this edition our endeavor is to put forth to those entering Ball High the accomplishments of the previous Quills, hoping that they will appreciate them as much in their years here as our graduating Seniors of 1958, our leaders of tomorrow. The Quill will always hold memories of them close to their hearts as we hope they will hold dear their days at Ball High School.

Foreword

As we glance through these pages of time and precious memories we have collected from this year, we wonder what the future will hold for us. Many other students on this threshold have seen this same question on the horizon. They, too, have preserved their memories in this same manner. With this book we celebrate their efforts—Our Tenth Anniversary Issue.

We have taken division pages from the yearbooks of the previous ten years and devoted each section to the past annuals from which the page was lifted respectively. In this way, we wish not only for this annual chest to gather the rare gems of events from the year of '58 but arrange the strands of past memories as they were washed ashore on the sands of time.

Everyone enjoyed the senior field trip to the U. of H.

Little Rooney Finly and Zero helped make our Pancake Supper a slamming success.

Ball High made a terrific showing at the Teen Time Party at the KPRC-TV studios.

"Am I Just a Dancing Partner"

The first snowfall in nine years and you might know that Gussie Williams, Eddie Maples, Edwin Maxwell, and Bobby Richardson would be out enjoying it.

Jess Richardson tries to put a snowball down brother Bobby's back.

"Snow!"

Pat and Mike Bullinger also enjoy the snow in the patio of Ball High.

Gussie, Doris Pearson, Kathleen Scrafone, Jeralyn Smith, Hans VonderHoffen, and Eddie all agree that the snow is pretty wonderful although you wouldn't know it by the expression on their faces.

EDUCATION IS ESSENTIAL to you as a future scientist, teacher, welder, secretary or housewife or whatever your profession might be. It is most important to select and complete high school subjects that will adequately prepare you in your chosen profession or vocation. Enough courses are offered at Ball High School to prepare you for entrance into any college in the United States or to be a successful electrician, secretary or housewife, but the essential part of your education is earnest application in your subject matter in high school for basic knowledge poorly learned can mean less success in adult life.

Take each year of your high school career and make it a continual process for your intellectual, spiritual and physical success.

George L. Morton
Principal

TO THE CLASS OF '58

Graduation day is both an end and a beginning, the completion of one important job and the assignment of another. You have finished twelve years of formal education designed to equip you with the intellectual skills and the background of information necessary for assuming the responsibilities of adult citizenship.

Very soon the collective influence of your generation will be the guiding factor of our nation. May you undertake this responsibility with integrity and courage and with a dedication to the democratic principles that have permeated your schooling.

May good fortune be with you always.

Hi-Lights

The bi-week publication of the Ball High newspaper has been a constant source of information about school activities and opinions to students and teachers alike. Sponsored this year by Mr. Aaron Baker and co-edited by Avery Guest and Charles McClelland, those sixteen issues have linked students' ideas and increased school spirit.

We are very proud of our newspaper and the staff who have been responsible for its publication.

These photographers, David Pearson and Joe Peck (above) and Donald Goode (left) make up the basic foundation on which this book is composed. Without their co-operation and effort, the school publications would not be possible. For this the Quill has set aside this page to recognize them.

The Quill also gives thanks to Gig Goodenow (below) for making the art work of this yearbook possible.

Anniversary Issue of the Purple Quill

This year we celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of the Purple Quill as a pictorial yearbook. Through the years many staffs have endeavored continually to produce a better quality book in which to preserve the memories of the past year. No staff has labored more industriously for this purpose than this staff of '58.

We dedicate this section of our book to these members whose efforts have made possible this publication.

The Advisory Council, pictured here, discusses some last-minute problems that have arisen before the final deadline in February.

Quill staff members take a pause from their last-minute rush to enjoy Twirp Week.

R.O.T.C.

As the Purple Quill Annual celebrates its tenth year of existence, the Ball High School Reserve Officers' Training Corps marks its twenty-second year of service to the Cadets and to the school.

In teaching its Cadets to be better citizens and persons as well as better soldiers, the R.O.T.C. renders an invaluable service to them. The R.O.T.C. instills discipline, respect, and courtesy; it gives a knowledge of and an interest in military affairs; and it prepares the Cadet for his compulsory military service or for his college R.O.T.C. training leading to a commission in one of the armed forces.

In providing such proud organizations as the crack Pershing Guard Drill Team and the sharpshooting Ball High Rifle Team, the Corps does great service to the school. These organizations, as well as the Corps itself (which, by winning Army honor ratings for twenty-one years, has brought Ball High to a place of honor) perpetually bring honor, respect, and admiration to the name of Ball High.

The R.O.T.C. provides in addition to its curricular studies, which are so valuable to the student, many after-hours activities for the benefit of all. The Officers' Candidate School teaches leadership methods to Cadets of outstanding leadership ability and commissions many of them Cadet officers. The drill and rifle teams allow Cadets to put into practice what they have learned. And such social activities as the lavish Annual Military Ball and Banquet, the R.O.T.C. Picnic, and the annual Turkey Shoot round out the Cadets' activities.

When, at the end of the year, many Cadets receive honors for their achievements throughout the year at the Graduation and Presentation of Awards Ceremony, the R.O.T.C. takes a certain pride; it has turned out another set of leaders and passed another productive and useful year in its long, commendable history.

Ceremonies

Presentation of Awards

Cadet Captain Donald Boldman's "A" Company is awarded the citation for being the best company of the parade. The reviewing officer, a Marine Corps major, attaches the ribbon to the guidon, held by D. Pearson. Captain C. E. Welch, the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, looks on.

Commissioning

Mr. George L. Morton, principal (left), presents Officer Candidate James Finger with his newly won commission as an R.O.T.C. officer. The Commissioning Ceremony was the climax of a six-weeks' course in officer principles which offered competition for the coveted officers' commissions.

Change of Command

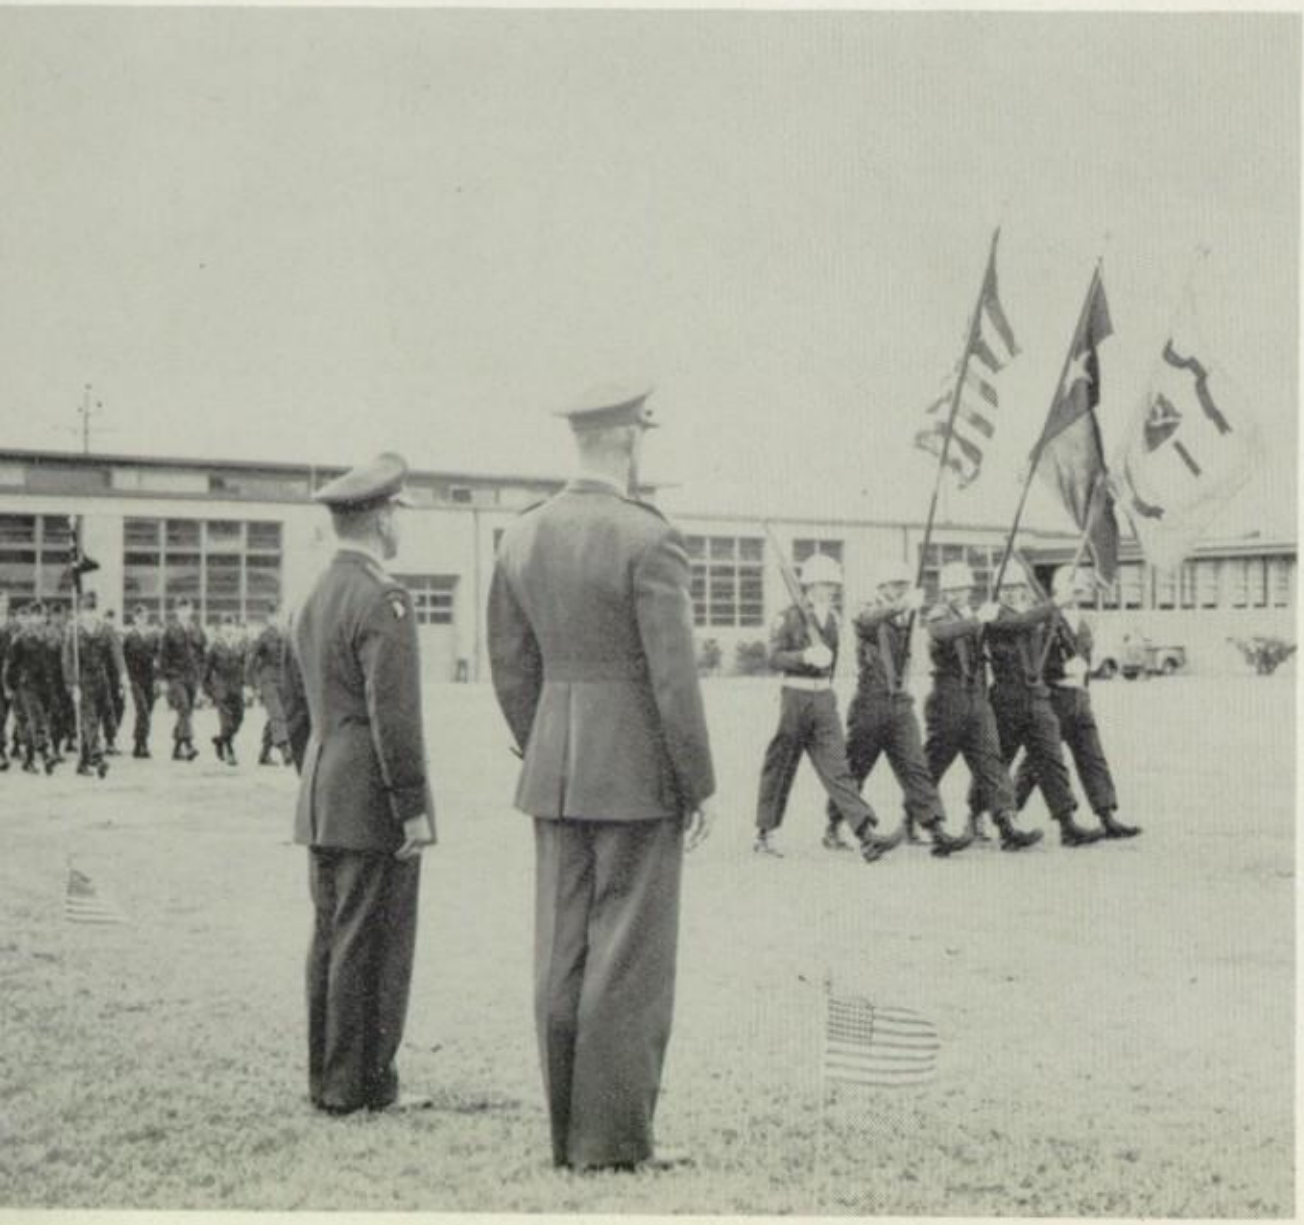
Inspections

Cadet Company Commander Donald Boldman "hits a brace" as he and his guidon bearer, David Person, prepare for a rigorous inspection. The many inspections held in the R.O.T.C. all lead up to the annual "Federal Inspection" by an Army inspection team from Army Headquarters. Being well-prepared for this inspection has caused the Ball unit to be consistently rated "honor unit" by the government. Always presenting a sharp and snappy appearance, the Ball R.O.T.C. has done well by its school to consistently bring honor to it.



Reviews

The Ball High R.O.T.C. Color Guard marches by the reviewing stand bearing the National, State, and Ball High Flags.

Reviews such as these allow the Cadets to parade their knowledge before the distinguished reviewing officers who "take the stand."

The military review, thousands of years old, is still colorful and spectacular at Ball High.

Military Ball

Dr. Morgan Evans, Superintendent of Schools, is welcomed to the Annual Military Ball and Banquet by fall semester commander Colonel Charles McClelland at the head of the reception line. The lavish social event was held in the Grecian Room of the Galvez Hotel shortly after mid-term. Dr. Evans was one of many distinguished and honored guests who attended the Ball and Banquet.

Rock 'n Roll Show

THIS was one of the outstanding events of the year and seemed too important to leave out even though it came too late for us to include it in the Activities section of our book.

Here are some of the pictures of this Rock 'n Roll show of '58 sponsored by the Electric Shop of Ball High. All the work was profitable. Everybody rocked and talked about these scenes long after.

How Soon After Graduation Will You Start Paying The Bills?

It just depends, doesn't it? . . . whether you're going off to college . . . getting married . . . going to work right away.

Whichever route you take, in the not too distant future you'll probably start using electric service in your own home. We thought you'd like to know that your Light Company is made up of folks just like you . . . folks who have worked very hard to keep electric rates low.

We are a business-managed, tax-paying company—a part of the American free enterprise system that has brought more benefits to more people than any other in history.
